Tracy Rocca is a visual artist and photographer based in Washington, D.C. Her work is primarily in the medium of photography, with a focus on nature and landscape. She has exhibited her work in various galleries and museums, and her work has been featured in several publications. Rocca's work is characterized by its use of light and shadow, and its focus on the natural world. She often uses a combination of natural and artificial light to create a sense of atmosphere and mood in her photographs. Her work is also characterized by its use of color, and its focus on the textures and patterns of the natural world. Rocca's work is a beautiful and evocative exploration of the natural world, and it is a testament to her skill as a photographer and her passion for nature.

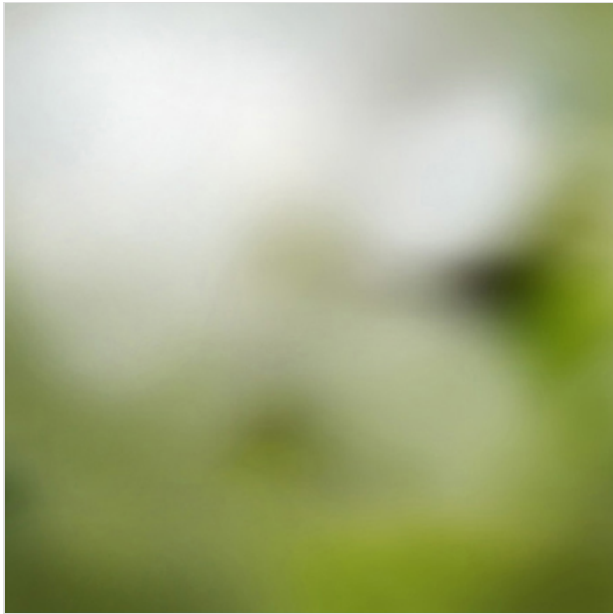

TRACY ROCCA

The goal of my work is to create a place where the mind can rest.

The imagery I use arises from, first, consistent observation and, second, a conscious effort to slow down. When I find colors or forms that inspire me to pause and look, I document them with a camera. I find inspiration anywhere from wild blossoms I see on walks to the grocery store, to leaves turning in the Manzano Mountains outside
